C. C. C. Captain Praises Local Men In His Command

252nd Company Civilian Conservation Corps, Davis County Camp, 2-201, Bountiful, Utah.

Kingston, N. Y., July 17, 1933.

I am enclosing a copy of a letter which I am mailing this date to the parents or recipients of the allotments of all members of this company.

My desire is to get as much mail from home for these boys as is possible. I feel sure that if you would give this subject a little publicity in your columns it would bring about the desired result.

The Kingston boys in this company are doing a fine job. This camp is no picnic and all of the men are doing a man's work.

As you probably know, each boy receives $20 a month, $25 of which he sends home.

The people of Kingston have a good reason to be proud of these boys. They are certainly doing their share for their families and for the community as a whole.

Naturally, word from home letting them know that their help is being appreciated, would help a lot.

Respectfully yours,
CHARLES R. SARGENT,
Captain 16th Infantry
Commanding.

The letter referred to by Capt. Sargent is as follows:

CIVILIAN CONSERVATION CORPS
Company No. 232
Davis County Camp 2-201,
Bountiful, Utah.

Letters—letters—and more letters. Letters from home, from their best girls, from their chums. That is what the boys in the camps want now. If the bridle heifer had a calf, they want to know about it. If old Rover whipped the stuffing out of that ornery pup of St. Jones, they want to know about it. Maybe Sister Susie has a new beau—that sleek-headed Smith kid that lives down by the railroad. Tell 'em about it.

If brother Johnnie took Pa's fiver and smashed the left front fender on the Bakery Ford delivery, that's a lot of news. Remember this, folks—these boys are doing their bit. They are working hard. I am their company commander, and I know.

You ought to feel mighty proud of the boys. They are putting up a fight out here and they get so darned homesick sometimes. I have two hundred of them and it would just break your heart sometimes to see these kids ask for mail—a letter from home. They are all pepped up just expecting it—and then there isn't any. You should see their faces then. So write to them, folks. They are doing all they can for you—so you do your part.

I will tell you a little about the camp while I am writing. We are situated high up in the Wasatch Mountains overlooking the Great Salt Lake. We are fifteen miles from the city itself. It is really a beautiful spot, and when we get built in here with our tent, mess hall, and bath house, it will be fine. Right now, we have to put up with a lot of discomfort—but only for a couple of weeks.

It's hot here during the day. Might hot. But at night it is fine. We sleep under the blankets every night. This is a big change for most of the boys, but it is doing them a lot of good.

So I appeal to you again—give these kids a break and write. They are all doing a man's work and what they get at the end of the month is just five dollars. So take a part of that twenty-five, and invest it in stamps. Then tell him how the rest of it is helping out.

Now if there is anything I can tell you about the camp, or any other way I can serve you, just drop me a line.

Sincerely yours,
CHARLES R. SARGENT,
Capt. 16th Inf., Commanding Co. 232.

$11,202 Returned To Wiley Post Hops Off Believe Dunham Was County In Beer Tax For New York on Last Going Back For His Leg of His World Trip Money When Killed

State Returns Half of Funds Collected For Beer Revenues to County—Funds So Far Mostly Licenses.

State Comptroller Morris S. Tremaine today made the first distribution of beer revenues to the various counties of the state to be redistributed by the county treasurers to their respective localities on the basis of population. In this distribution Ulster county receives $11,202.94.

Distribution was made on the basis of collection figures furnished the comptroller by Mark Graves, president of the State Tax Commission.

Collections for the period ending June 30, consisting principally of license fees, amounted to $3,519,771.01. Under the law, half of the total revenue from beer is retained by the state and the other half distributed throughout the state on a per capita basis.

The total is somewhat less than half of the total collections, because the law requires the comptroller to retain a sum calculated to be sufficient to satisfy claims for refunds in cases where applicants are refused licenses and where overpayments of taxes are made. Besides, $1,286.49 of the collections reported today was for revenue from wine, and the law provides that the state retain all revenue from this source.

Edmonton, July 21 (AP)—Wiley Post, Oklahoma, round-the-world flier, hopped off for New York on the last leg of his trip at 5:41 a. m., E. S. T. today.

"I've got to get going; I'm in a hurry," he said as he sat in the cockpit just previous to the take-off. A moment later the Winnie Mae was roaring down the Portage avenue pavement and into the clear eastern sky. A good tail wind gave promise that the flier might reach New York by midnight, eastern standard time.

Post seemed a new man when he stepped into the cockpit preparatory to the take-off. His brief rest here had done him a lot of good. When he arrived he was greatly fatigued, but at the take-off he was lively and cheerful.

"Maybe the weather change pepped me up," he said. He landed from Fairbanks in a driving rain but before he departed the sun broke through the gray clouds and take-off conditions were almost perfect.

The flier said he felt better than when he passed through Edmonton with Gatty in 1931.

The flier expressed hop of reaching New York in fourteen hours, which would mean landing there shortly before midnight, eastern standard time, well under the Post-Gatty record of eight days, 15 hours, 51 minutes.

INTERESTING MEETING OF W. C. T. U. HELD WEDNESDAY.

New Paltz, July 22.—A very interesting meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. Abel Quick on Grove street Wednesday afternoon, July 19. The president, Mrs. Ida Stephens, had charge of the devotion which began with singing "America," which was followed with Scripture reading and prayer. Considerable business was transacted and the afternoon program that followed was in charge of the citizenship director, Mrs. Hiram Relyea. It was very interesting. Before taking up the subject on her line of work Mrs. Relyea gave a brief sketch from the first record kept of the New Paltz W. C. T. U., which was organized in 1878, where and when the first meeting was held, which was at the home of Mrs. Abner DuBois, on March 29, 1878. After reading the constitution at that time, Mrs. Relyea also read a few interesting items from some of the minutes in the book and then proceeded with the program. The August meeting is the annual meeting and election of officers, and will be held at the home of Mrs. Hiram Relyea on Church street.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR CATSKILL EVENING LINE

New York, July 21 (Special)—An action for an equity receivership for the Catskill Evening Line, Inc., was filed in United States District Court here today by the Empire Trust Co., acting as trustee under a mortgage dated 1927, made by the Catskill Evening Line to secure its six percent, twenty year, sinking fund gold bonds.

The plaintiff is owed $69,700, mostly in past-due obligations. The assets of the defendant line include three ships, Catskill, Storm King and Reserve, and waterfront land in Coxsackie, Catskill and Hudson. Its main office is stated to be in Wilmington, Del., where it is incorporated.

LIGHTNING STRUCK NEAR SPA FRIDAY.

Lightning struck with considerable force at West Hurley on Friday afternoon and split a large oak tree in back of Sam Gregg's Spa. Splinters from the tree were thrown across the road and into the reservoir property, one large piece landing on the roof of the Spa. A number of windows were cracked by the bolt. The storm was of short duration, starting as rain, changing to hail, then rain again with thunder and lightning.

Mad Forgetting His Money and After Driving Nearly to Kingston Found Pocketbook Missing and Was Returning Home When Killed.

Further investigation into the death of Raymond C. Dunham, New Paltz butcher, who was drowned Friday morning when his butcher truck plunged through the guard rail and into the Walkill creek near Dashville Falls, reveals the fact that he had not paid his customary visit to the meat packing house Friday morning, where he usually purchased his meat. The truck had evidently been driven toward New Paltz when the accident happened and it was supposed that he was returning from his daily trip to Kingston at the time.

An investigation was conducted by the officials of Sheriff Saxe learned that Mr. Dunham had left home at the usual early hour, to drive to Kingston but that he never did arrive here. It was learned that Dunham always paid cash for his meat. However when the body was recovered his pocketbook was missing, and later it was found that he had left his pocketbook at home.

Evidently he had forgotten his money and after driving nearly to Kingston had discovered the pocketbook missing and was returning home to get it at the time of the accident. Probably delayed by this incident, he may have been hurrying over the narrow highway when his car plunged over the 40 foot bank at the curve into the creek. His truck was observed going toward New Paltz by a witness shortly before it reached the power house. This was about 6:20 o'clock and the accident happened approximately at that hour.

Oppose Use of Land For Jewish Cemetery

Wawarsing Town Board Reserves Decision Until Next Meeting On Petition For Hebrew Burying Grounds.

For nearly two hours Wednesday evening the Wawarsing town board heard arguments by attorneys on the question as to whether or not the new Jewish Cemetery Association should be allowed to use land they have recently purchased at Wawarsing for burial purposes.

The new association recently purchased a strip of land, 1,300 by 1,200 feet, extending from near the barn on the Henry Russell property towards the Nevaio Inn, being located near the present Jewish cemetery. The town board had previously given permission to use the tract for burial purposes, subject to the approval of Dr. George F. Harker, health officer. The land lies between the new and the old state road, the new road running considerably east of the old alignment after crossing the Wawarsing bridge.

LeRoy Lounsberry appeared for some 61 residents of the vicinity, who oppose the use of the land for such purposes, claiming that it would be dangerous to health and would injure the value of their property. Joseph Kooperman appeared for the cemetery association.

On motion the town board decided to reserve decision until their next regular meeting.

Gossip Columnist Learns from Jolson

Hollywood, Calif., July 22 (AP)—Walter Winchell, gossip columnist from New York, took it on the button from Al Jolson last night.

Among the things the columnist never knew until now (he said so) is the way the actor can punch ambidextrously, although Winchell insists that when Jolson mauled him at the Hollywood Legion Stadium boxing show he was helped by another guy.

Four thousand persons saw the brawl and 4,000 versions were extant today, but the fact remains that Jolson hit Winchell because he didn't like him, because he resented things reflecting disparagingly—Jolson said—on Ruby Keeler. And he resented that because Ruby Keeler is Mrs. Al Jolson.

Select Lieutenants In Huge Program

Washington, July 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt and Hugh S. Johnson today began selecting 500 lieutenants to impel toward victory their unprecedented peace-time program for putting at least 6,000,000 idle to work by September.

Both were said to be highly pleased by first public reaction toward their scheme, under which around 5,400,000 employers would sign agreements with the President to increase pay and put more people to work by shortening the hours of those now employed.

Mormons Gather In the Sacred Grove

Palmyra, July 22 (AP)—From all parts of this country and Canada, missionaries and elders of the church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints have gathered in this small community for a three-day conference at the Joseph Smith farm, where the Mormon church was founded July 24, 1830.

Led by Elder James H. Moyle, president of the eastern states mission with headquarters at Brooklyn, the ceremonies will begin today in the sacred grove. From there the fathers of the church and laymen will make a pilgrimage to the hill of Cumorah near here, where Mormon church history tells the Angel Moroni directed Joseph Smith in a vision to dig for a set of golden plates.

The spot where Smith claimed he found the plates, which purported to tell of a lost American civilization and the tenets of the "true religion," is the mecca of the Mormon church. Tomorrow the conference will celebrate pioneer day, commemorating the entry of the Mormon pilgrims into Salt Lake Valley.

Elder Willard W. Bean, president of the Palmyra branch of the church and for many years in charge of the Smith farm, will address the gathering on historical evidences attesting the authenticity of the Book of Mormon, which is Smith's translation of the material he claimed to have found inscribed on the golden plates.

Next year the church will erect a 40-foot shaft to mark the spot where Prophet Smith received his vision.

Phoenixville, Pa., July 22 (AP)—At best the umpire's job is a tough one. But when even nature conspires to poke fun at him—Umpire Calvin Longacre became furious and the crowd at a twilight league game howled because a bird alighted on the perspiring official's head.

It was a woodpecker.

Committee Returns from Washington with First Definite Approved Plan, Which Will Be Presented to General Committee This Evening—Minor Details To Be Worked Out—Expect Bank to Open Very Shortly.

The depositors' committee of the National Ulster County Bank and Trust Company has returned from Washington with the first definite approved plan for the reopening of the bank, which has remained closed since the national banking holiday last March. This plan, which has been definitely approved by the government banking authorities, will be presented to the general committee at a meeting this evening at 5 o'clock in the court room in the county court house.

While in Washington the committee, named by the depositors at a mass meeting held several days ago at the old armory, conferred with government banking officials and saw all people interested in the matter of reopening, from the comptroller down. Various conferences were held with officials in relation to a plan for reopening and before leaving Washington the depositors' committee had secured a definite plan, approved officially by Washington and hearing official signatures of approval.

This plan, which is the first to be given full official approval by government officials, is now in the hands of the depositors' committee and details will be released Monday. The depositors' committee will this evening work out details with the general committee for carrying out the plan which it is confidently expected will result in a very early opening of the bank.

The plan was worked out by the depositors' committee and submitted to the government. As a result of the conferences in Washington the plan was presented and officially approved and becomes the first reopening plan to bear government approval.

This new approved plan of the depositors' committee will now be presented to the general committee and all that remains to be done is to work out minor details. The committee confidently expects that the bank will be reopened very shortly.

Both entries of the Lake Katrine Grange won in their respective classes.

There were three groups entered from the counties: Solos, duets, quartets.

A young lady from Delaware county won in the solo class. The duet was won by William T. Hooley, Jr., tenor, and Ralph Gurney, bass, who sang "Lorabod Watch." The men were dressed in sailor suits.

The winners of the quartet, consisting of Mrs. William T. Hooley, Jr., soprano; Mrs. Paul Lachmann, alto; William T. Hooley, Jr., tenor; Ralph Gurney, bass. They sang "Steal Away."

This was a negro spiritual and the quartet was made up to represent negro slaves.

Mrs. Donald Parish accompanied both numbers on the piano.

May Contest Repeal Vote in Tennessee

Nashville, Tenn., July 22 (AP)—The majority of repealists in Tennessee's prohibition referendum narrowed to 8,840 votes today and dry leaders, charging fraud, said a contest of the election was under consideration.

Tabulation of returns from Thursday's vote in 2,091 of Tennessee's 2,322 precincts showed 124,922 repeal as compared with 116,082 against it. The missing precincts were small and widely scattered.

As the repeal lead dwindled, Dr. John F. Baggett, chairman of the state's dry forces, issued a statement declaring the "grosslest possible fraud was practiced in Memphis and Nashville, where a total majority of nearly 40,000 votes was rolled up for repeal."

AHEAD

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A MERRY road this road we tread. But this at least I always know: The past shall never make me blind. To gifts the future may bestow. If now behind me shadows show, Before me there must be a sun. Tomorrow is the road to go, And not a road already run.

Tomorrow is the only one. The only highway left to tread. The past is past, what's done is done. Whatever number men have said. The shadows are forever fled From those who take the brighter way. There's always something still ahead. There's always something still ahead. There's always something still ahead. There's always something still ahead.

I do not know what I shall find, But this at least I always know: The past shall never make me blind. To gifts the future may bestow. If now behind me shadows show, Before me there must be a sun. Tomorrow is the road to go, And not a road already run.

Colors Easiest on Eyes
American investigators find that there is less fatigue of the eye for yellow light than for red, blue and green. They also find that visual acuity and speed of vision and, in fact, all the visual functions are at their best under yellow light. A German investigator, found the same thing. He found that visual acuity and speed of vision are greater for yellow light than for green, red, white or blue. He is of the opinion that blue and red lights are the colors most fatiguing to the eye. Other German investigators have obtained the same results.

Ontario's Gold in Veins

Down Deep in the Ground

Ontario's gold is found in veins of white quartz which dip sharply and deeply into the ground. No one knows how far down some of them go—several have been followed a mile straight down. The term "vein" is misleading; a vein in mining is not a tube, but a flat plane. Tilt a layer cake on an angle and cut it in half and one will have a rough diagram of a gold mine. The filling is a vein imbedded in the barren waste of dough. Once a vein is discovered, it may be easy to follow. The bright white quartz stands sharply out against the darker country rock. One may or may not see gold in it.

Once a vein has been discovered and the richness, dip and direction established, deep gold mining is more of an industrial than a speculative enterprise—a simple engineering problem of how to extract the gold most cheaply. The big Ontario mines usually have their work blocked out (once openings are actually cut through to the vein) three to five years in advance. They can actually plan two years' work ahead and they therefore can make capital investments in heavy machinery and permanent equipment.

The United States took about 10 per cent of all Italian exports in the last year, two-thirds of the purchases being foodstuffs and cheese being the largest single item.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 22 (AP)—Conflicting currents today warred stocks through treacherously troubled market waters. Early rallies throughout the list of 3 to 7 or more points gave way to renewed liquidation later in furious trading which virtually swamped exchange specialists. There were numerous last-minute recoveries, but at noon prices were highly irregular. Transfers approximated 4,000,000 shares.

Overriding the growing army of "shorts" added leading stocks to come back substantially in the first hour but the elimination of many shilly-shally margins accounts handicapped the upward movement. The ticker was 10 to 20 minutes behind floor transactions throughout most of the day. The only grain market open at Winnipeg, found wheat and rye off 5 to 6 cents a bushel at one time while cotton, here, dropped about 32 a bale before receiving support. The dollar displayed strength in foreign exchange dealings. Bonds were mixed.

Share gains of fractions to around a point or more included U. S. Steel, N. Y. Central, General Motors, Commercial Solvents, Union Pacific, International Telephone and Sugar. Roebuck Case was under pressure for a loss of around 5 points. Among losers of fractions to 1 or more were American Telephone, Santa Fe, Westinghouse, Montgomery Ward, National Drug, American Can, American Tobacco R and DuPont.

FASHIONS BY ELEANOR GUNN

Crescendo Movement in Ruffles and Organdies at Gala

What Society Wore at the Races

Worn At a Country Club Dance

(Copyright, 1933, by Fairchild)

The evening at the Ambassadors devoted to lace and embroideries, gave greater emphasis to the interest in ruffles and organdies that has been developing in Paris during the past six weeks. Embroideries led far and away over lace. Among the gowns worn for the occasion are four sketched above.

The gown at the extreme left is in black chiffon, and has the lower part of its skirt in a patchwork of black and white diamonds. It is worn with a double bertha of white chiffon, a Worth model.

The second gown is a ruffy type with long-sleeved jacket, in white organdie finely worked with pink ruffles and sashes in red, white and blue taffeta. It is also from Worth. The third frock of pale blue organdie embroidered in tinsel has folds bordering the skirt and winging the armholes in plain blue.

The gown at the extreme right is in pale pink organdie with white sprig embroideries except for the ruffles which are plain pink.

At left is a frock in three shades of blue and white, in flower print, on a navy ground, and worn with a navy belt and Baillibunt hat, trimmed with white flowers.

Navy is again the choice in one of the popular white-dotted satins, with neatly seamed body that contrasts with the umbrella points of the sleeves.

An ensemble of field flowers in scattered nosegays, on a black ground, is distinguished by a long belted coat; large straw capeline and shoes are assembled in bright red.

Note the high neckline with bow or flower finish in each instance.

The striped matelasse organdie frock at the left is an especially youthful evening type in pink and white. The flower-like neckline treatment repeats the pleated detail of the hemline.

The handkerchief "how back" frock was inspired by a Lucile Paray model. The model illustrated is in black and introduces a novel pocket treatment in the skirt.

Many printed dresses were worn, mostly fairly large, confused closely-mixed florals.

Horizontal Hats Are New

Popular Fad for Women

Not your wildest out, perhaps, but one of them--should be a big Merry Widow hat of bicycle dura. They may be called like a picnic plate in play moments which offer relief from dull companions. These latest-of-fats hats range anywhere from 10 inches across to about 22 and look completely society balls in rough straw or sheer; straws with a daily bunch of field flowers from the home-worked sofa-pillow period, perched starchy at some vantage point of the hat band.

Glenglen Blouses
Field glenglen blouses enhance the charm of linen suits. You can have a glenglen hat to match and, if you want to go the whole way in glenglen, gloves can be made of the same material as the blouse and hat.

DRESSES FROM BAGS IS ECONOMIC FAD

Women have a new game in this country--making dresses from sacks. The idea isn't exactly new, but it was not until the depression reached its worst that the product was undertaken in earnest. It has gained popularity in recent weeks, stimulated by a contest conducted by Miss Iris Davenport, clothing specialist for the extension division of Louisiana State university.

Flour, sugar, salt, feed, seed and even fertilizer and burlap bags are used. Strips are pulled and the bags ripped open. Stencils are removed by allowing the bag to stand in hard overnight. Bleaching and drying processes follow. Then it is up to the individuality of the dress-maker.

Bags that came in through the kitchen door now are seen swarming out the front entrance as the best street frocks of the lady of the house.

He "About-Faced" From Banditry

Alexander Adair, 83-year-old former member of Jesse James' band, thinks often of those colorful and stirring days of the "wild west," but behind when he reformed. But now, most of all, as he lies in a Denver hospital with life lingering uncertainly, he longs to see his son, like himself a runaway in youth.

Kingston: "Private Detective 62." William Powell has somewhere in his excellent cinema career been given a better story than this, but at that, the show moves along at a fairly brisk pace, and the star makes the most of his opportunities in a role that is lost in a somewhat dusty plot. This time, Mr. Powell is let out of the diplomatic service, and after searching about for a new position, he finally ends up in a crooked detective agency where he becomes a private detective whose noble task it is to frame innocent women. He goes along fine until he is asked to frame Margaret Lindsay, but instead of that he falls in love with her, and the story ends up by his proving what a dirty bunch of rotters the detective agency really is.

Orpheum: "So This is Africa" and "Self Defense." Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey put on an African picture seemingly for the purpose of ending all future "mellerdrammers" of the dark continent. In a subtle way, the hokum that burdened many of the African talkie efforts is taken for a gentle and humorous ride in the best Wheeler-Woolsey manner. There are some real laughs in this show, and Raquel Torres proves a lovely heroine. "Self Defense" offers Claire Windsor, Pauline Frederick and Theodore Von Eltz in a story of tangled lives and destinies.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON — The capital's main attraction, congress, is away until next February, but the swift once that Washington has been following since March 4 continues unabated.

Many declare it is necessary to go back to the summer of 1917 and 1918 to find a comparison for the summer activity in the various departments of government now prevailing.

Everywhere, from the White House on down the line, the same swiftness and energy are in evidence.

Perhaps there is no better illustration of this activity than the schedule of press conferences in the various government departments.

Usually in the summer these formal meetings with the press are more or less abandoned by the government officials. But not so this summer.

Stepping Along
Here's a typical week for the Washington newspaperman who attempts to keep abreast of what's going on:

On Monday at 9:30 in the morning Secretary Wallace receives him over at the department of agriculture. At 10 o'clock, if he can make it, Postmaster General Farley is waiting to give him the latest news in his department. At 11 o'clock Attorney General Cummings is available at the department of justice.

At 11:30 Mrs. Roosevelt has a press conference attended only by the newspaper women.

On Tuesday at 10:30 in the morning Secretary Ickes meets the press at the interior department and half an hour later Secretary Perkins has her press conference. At 11:30 Reel Administrator Hopkins meets the newspapermen. There's no further contact that day until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when all of them go to see General Hugh Johnson and learn how the national recovery program is functioning.

Wednesday at 10:30 President Roosevelt gives the first of his bi-weekly conferences.

Secretary Roper of the department of commerce and Secretary Swanson of the navy both see the press following the White House conference.

Thursday is a big day. At 9 o'clock Secretary Ickes holds forth again. Attorney General Cummings and Secretary Wallace held press conferences at the same hour, 2:30, as do Farley and Hopkins at 4 o'clock.

Secretary Dera of the war department may be seen at 11:30 in the morning.

On Friday General Johnson meets the press at 10 o'clock and the President again at 4 in the afternoon. And in addition there is a daily press conference at the state department at 10:30 and 12:30 on alternate days.

Faster! Faster!

In the title of this picture, and what's more, they make a neat job of it. For thrilling drama, this show rates among the best, as it discloses the gamble eleven people take in an effort to overcome their present difficulties.

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same.
Orpheum: "Thirteen Women" and "Fighting For Justice." Irene Dunne, Ricardo Cortez and Myrna

Loy are to be seen in the first attraction, a modern story of modern people. Tim McCoy is above average in the western tale "Fighting For Justice" while episode number 7 of "Hurricane Express" offers its usual quota of thrilling moments.

An added attraction is the "Sharky-Carnera" fight pictures, an official round by round story of the recent world championship bout.

Broadway: Same.

Do YOU Know—

That during the war of 1812, all meats inspected by the United States Government was stamped with the letters U. S. Then serving as an inspector, was one Samuel Wilson whom everybody called Uncle Sam. Upon inquiry being made as to the meaning of the two letters, a fellow worker jokingly remarked Uncle Sam and ever since this has been used to personify the United States.

Words Used by Criminals

Foreign words are often corrupted both in spelling and pronunciation when used by criminals, but nevertheless serve admirably the purpose for which they are intended. Finn, a cant term for five, comes from the German fink; filly, a girl, is from the French fille, a daughter; bosh (now a colloquial expression) is from the Turkish bosh, empty; gelt, money, is from the German gold or the Dutch gelt; and gonot, a thief, is taken without change from the Hebrew. Booze is possibly from one of two Dutch words, balse, a drinking cup, or bursen, to tipple. Chow, food, is from the Chinese.

About 85 per cent of the Iowa State College graduates in 1930-32 are at work, reports President R. M. Hughes.

Stunning Assaults On Mile Mark Have Come At 10-Year Intervals

In the space of 20 years, at exact 10-year intervals, John Paul Jones, Paavo Nurmi and Jack Lovelock have one at a time taken big chunks out of the world record for the mile run. Now they are wondering when some super-runner will come along to stun the athletic universe with the dreamed-of "four-minute mile." (Can it be done?)

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

The great American ball game between all stars of the two major leagues not only attracted widespread interest and sowed the seed of a novelty that may lead to some far-reaching changes in schedule-making for 1934, but it proved just one thing, from the competitive viewpoint.

It simply demonstrated that the one and only George Herman Ruth is still the greatest showman of them all, a player whose ability to rise to the heights at spotlight moments is unmatched by any other athlete over a period of two decades. And we have known that right along.

There can't even be much sting for my friends of the National League in knowing that it took one of the Babe's mighty blows off little Bill Hallahan, to decide the outcome of a game bringing together the best players of the rival big leagues.

They are well used to being buffeted around by the Yankee slugger. The Giants, the Pirates, the Cardinals and the Cubs have known what it meant to irritate the great man or to have him aroused at critical moments of world series play in the last dozen years.

National Leaguers, from President John Arnold Heydler down to the man they concede the Babe is the one man they can't stop so long as he can trundle himself up to the batting box. Their only solace is that he can't last forever, although his mere appearance in the park in future moments when his playing career is ended may tend to strike fear into the rival camp.

Relieves Monotony.
To any but the most stubborn and hide-bound major club owner, it must have been apparent that the all-star game was a stimulant, likewise proof that big league fandom is keen to have some departures in the old order.

Perhaps a series of mid-season games between such all-star lineups would help relieve the monotony that so often develops in the pennant races.

Perhaps the "break" could be better effected by adopting one of the several suggestions now under consideration for changing the schedules of the two leagues, either to provide a "split" season such as some of the minor leagues have adopted, or to conduct a round-robin playoff program similar to that now popular in big league hockey.

There has been a further proposal that inter-league games be scheduled during the regular season, the results to count in the standings in each race, and thus affording the opportunity for clubs like the Yankees and Giants, the White Sox and Cubs, the Pirates and Washington Senators, the Reds and Indians, for example, to fan natural rivalries existing outside their own established circle.

Needs Something.

Tradition is one of the hardest barriers to break down in any sport, especially one that has so consistently stuck to well-mapped routes as baseball.

But times have changed, many treasures are empty, some of the biggest parks are housing mere handfulls of cash customers and something must be done by the magnates to put fresh life into a sport that still unquestionably has a firm hold on popular interest and imagination.

Rain Washed Out City League Game

Rain halted the City League game between the Gardeners and Clows at the Athletic Field Friday evening.

Neither team scored during the three innings that were played. Paul Joyce was on the mound for the Gardeners. "Pucker" Davis did the hurling for the Dairymen.

Tagging Major League Bases

When Boston's two ball clubs are winning, puzzled fans wonder why they aren't higher up in the standings.

They offered a sample of what they can do at their best when the Braves blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 7 to 4 yesterday on the three-hit pitching of Huck Betts and the Red Sox whaled Chicago's White House 12 to 2. But when the returns were in, the Nationals were in fifth place, 7½ games behind the league leading New York Giants and the Red Sox, in seventh, weren't even in sight of the drawn battle between the Yankees and Washington for the American League lead.

Bill Walker gave Betts a close fight for six innings but the Braves cut loose and ran up all their runs in three frames to finish only a half game behind the Cards. Hal Lee's homer with two on was the big blow of the game. The Red Sox piled up 18 hits, with every man getting his share, while Gordon (Dusty) Rhodes limited the White Sox to six.

Meanwhile the Yankees and Senators continued their deadlock by winning lopsided victories and the Giants increased their National League margin by taking an exciting game from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 5, when Mel Ott's single with the bases loaded brought in the tying and winning runs in the ninth. Starting with Lou Gehrig's 18th homer, his first in a month, in the first inning the Yankees pounded out a 10 to 2 victory over the Cleveland Indians. Russell Van Atta held Cleveland to three hits until he was rendered hors de combat by Odell Hale's liner in the seventh, then Wiley Moore finished, giving two more. Van Atta suffered a broken blood vessel in his pitching arm and probably will be out for a couple of weeks.

Earl Whitehill pitched steadily to give Washington a 7-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers while Buddy Myer's triple with the bases full in the second started the scoring.

Cincinnati moved from eighth place to sixth in the National League with a 2 to 1 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. For the second day in a row, the Reds won in the ninth, Paul Derringer getting the blow that won his own game. Brooklyn dropped to the cellar while the Phillies, idle in Chicago, finished a point behind Cincinnati.

The St. Louis Browns went 12 innings to gain a 6-3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics when Bruce Campbell started a three run rally by making his fourth hit after two were out. Max Bishop's homer brought in all the A's runs.

Vegerwisch To Pitch For Crystal Gardens

Marty Vegerwisch, a sensational moundman who has made himself known in these parts only recently, will pitch for the Crystal Gardens, Sunday afternoon in their game with Poughkeepsie on the Pan Am diamond on the Saugerties road. The game will start at 3:15.

Marty made his debut in the city league a few weeks ago and won the admiration of all the fans. He has been the topic of conversation throughout baseball circles here since that time. Marty's personality on the mound along with his striking success makes a perfect combination for the fans.

He was secured by Manager Ashdown for the Gardens and with Marty's addition to the pitching staff, the Crystals have one of the best line of twirlers of any team in the district.

Poughkeepsie comes here with a good reputation and plenty of what takes to win a ball game. However, the Crystals are tuned up for warfare since their 3-2 defeat, Thursday at the hands of the New Paltz All Stars.

Rondouters Expect Win Over P. N. A.

A game that will hold all the brimstone and fire of competition, that has been pending for some time, will be played Sunday afternoon at Hasbrouck Park at 3 o'clock between the North Rondout Social Club and the P. N. A. organization. Both squads are about equal in ability but North Rondout insists that it can trim the P. N. A. very easily and the Rondouters are looking towards victory.

On the other hand the P. N. A. has been silent, but it has been dusting off bats and offing gloves for the big drive on their neighborhood opponent.
